ANNUAL REPORT 1965 BETH ISRAEL HOSPITAL

". . . But remember that medicine has not stopped breaking new ground. It is moving ahead faster than ever, and its requirements impose on us a readiness to move with it. We, therefore, must and we are planning right now to continue to provide the indispensable physical facilities which will match the responsibilities that medical progress imposes on us and will continue to demand of us as a great teaching hospital."

SAMUEL L. SLOSBERG, President

BETH ISRAEL HOSPITAL MOVES AHEAD IN 1965

MOVING AHEAD . . . IN THE COMMUNITY

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

It is the duty of the president of any publicly owned institution to report to its shareholders on the highlights of the past year's operations. Usually, the first matter of interest is the financial result — profit or loss. I therefore am proud to report to you, our shareholders, that, as in previous fiscal years, the operating results of the Beth Israel Hospital have produced a substantial loss. For the most part, this loss represents free care which we rendered to people who needed that care, but could not pay for what it cost us. It is estimated that last year the value of this free care was in the neighborhood of three quarters of a million dollars.

Did we make up that loss, and if so how? Well, the Combined Jewish Philanthropies continues to share our responsibilities to the community, and last year they allocated four hundred and forty thousand dollars to us. The difference was made up by our Women's Auxiliary and by other contributions by many good friends of the Hospital; but the largest share of the balance was made up by the income from our endowment funds. Obviously, the more endowment funds we have the better able we are to make up these losses and the less we would have to call on our community to supply.

We did make a profit, though, not in dollars and cents, but in life, in health, in comfort; keeping people productive, useful citizens so that they may be of helpful service to their fellow men. I don't know the dollar figure for that kind of profit.

Now as to physical facilities. The Building Program, initiated with a great deal of vision seven years ago, is nearing completion. The perfectly magnificent Rabb Building is coming into full use and enabling us to render a greatly improved service to our patients. The Outpatient Department will be completely remodeled early next Spring and will permit us to render service to ambulatory patients in a modern manner, efficiently, and with dignity. This will complete the Building Program which has been going on for the last several years. I think that it was very fortunate that we undertook that Program, for without it, without these splendid new facilities we could not possibly be in a position to make available to our patients the very latest developments in tools, techniques, and medical knowledge.

But remember that medicine has not stopped breaking new ground. It is moving ahead faster than ever, and its requirements impose on us a readiness to move with it. We, therefore, must and we are planning right now to continue to provide the indispensable physical facilities which will match the responsibilities that medical progress imposes on us and will continue to demand of us as a great teaching hospital.

The most interesting aspect to me is the changing look of the teaching hospital. No longer are we an institution sitting behind four walls, waiting for people to come to us for medical help. We are rapidly changing, as must all great hospitals, to a community health center; and as such we reach out beyond our walls into the community to bring health to people who might not come to this or any hospital except in cases of emergency. In other words, we're trying to keep people out of the hospital as long as possible. And to do this, we are extending our great medical resources to as large a community as we can reach.

Let me give you a few examples. The Beth Israel Hospital received the William J. Shroder award of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds for its comprehensive child care program, a first for any Boston institution. Dr. Robert B. Berg, our pediatrician-in-chief, together with Dr. Lee, our general director, conceived and worked out this program whereby, with the cooperation of the Jewish Memorial Hospital which made space available, we bring to a group of children, hundreds of them, considerably removed from 330 Brookline Avenue, continuous medical care. These are children who have had no relationship with a physician, but under our program they have a continuous relationship with a pediatrician, a nurse, and a social worker, who look after their health and see that they have a better start in life. We also used the framework of this program to participate in operation Headstart, of which you have heard so much.

Another kind of extension of our service is the agreement with the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for Aged, which was consummated this past year — a most gratifying event. By this agreement the Beth Israel Hospital assumes a wider responsibility for the standards of medical care for elderly residents of the Center. This medical program was carried on for many years so ably by Dr. Harry Savitz, and recently the Center has appointed as their first full-time physician-in-chief, our own Dr. Arthur Linenthal. The medical care rendered to the residents of the Rehabilitation Center for Aged will be superb and comforting to these elderly men and women.

The Home Care Program, originally underwritten by our Women's Auxiliary, is another example whereby we go into the homes of people who are not sick enough to be in the hospital, are better off at home, yet do need comprehensive medical care. This program is now in its twelfth year of community service.

The Jewish Family and Children Service receives our warm and willing help in caring for children whom they have placed in foster homes.

Even in the case of the Jewish Community Centers, particularly with their Golden Age Groups, the Beth Israel Hospital is actively involved through its Social Service Department, which concerns itself with their health needs.

These are some of the examples of what I mean by a great hospital becoming a health center and moving out into the community extending its healing warmth and comfort, giving the highest quality medical care to the depressed, the poor, the aged, and the bewildered; all in need of as sound a mind and body as medical skill can help make possible for them.

I say to you, therefore, that you have a right to be proud that you are shareholders in this rare kind of institution.

BETH ISRAEL HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION

MOVING AHEAD . . .

PART I ON THE NATIONAL SCENE
PART II IN THE HOSPITAL

PART I

This has been an unprecedented year in the whole health field for the Nation — a year which might be described as one of opportunity and challenge — challenge to all the health professions in every community of America to move ahead.

I was privileged to participate in the November, 1965 White House Conference on Health. President Johnson stated "I have called this conference with one purpose in mind: to bring together the best minds and the boldest ideas to deal with the pressing health needs of this Nation. Many citizens have been left behind in our advance toward better treatment and better health — some because of inadequate health manpower; others because of obsolete or scarce treatment facilities; and others because health services are not organized efficiently enough to provide first rate service . . . Ours is a great opportunity to advance ideas which will contribute not only to a healthier America, but to a better world. We have the resources; we need only the will and the leadership."

This conference came on the heels of adjournment of the first session of the Eighty-ninth Congress during which a great deal of health legislation affecting every American was adopted. Laws were enacted concerned with Medical Care for the aged, for mothers and for children, with the organization of Medical Care for people with heart disease, cancer and stroke, with the water we drink, the food and the medicines we consume — the very air we breathe.

Since the Social Security Act of 1935 we have not seen such a panoply of Federal Legislation in areas which affect the well being of our entire Nation.

But this legislation is not the answer to our problems, nor will next year's legislation provide the answers. For we must translate laws into action — action in the form of improved services to our people.

Beth Israel and the other major teaching hospitals stand at the point of impact of much of this new legislation. For we are concerned with demonstrating standards of care, leading the way in the development and application of new ideas and new techniques and with producing the manpower to implement programs.

If we are to continue to be leaders in each of these roles, we must move swiftly and surely, wisely, with great courage and without hesitation.

What is now the law of the land will affect almost every aspect of what we are used to doing. The Medicare provisions of P.L. 89-97 alone have implications for our relations with our ward patients, for our physical facilities, for the role of various categories of physicians on our staff, for our post-graduate educational activities, for our income and expense.

The Public Welfare Provisions of Title XIX of the same act will certainly cause extensive disruption of what we now consider as our normal patterns of activity.

And what of the so-called Johnson Bill for medical centers? Will this not alter our relations with other community agencies and change the character and perhaps the size of the population of patients we serve?

The immense outpouring of federal funds from various tax sources will need to be matched by enhanced effort and enhanced giving by the private sector of the economy if we are really to take advantage of the opportunities and the challenge which have been laid down before us.

Even more than ever before — we shall need to have the kind of enlightened, intelligent leadership which we have been fortunate to have in the past.

Together we share a huge responsibility — and I am sure that we shall meet the challenge . . . and grasp the opportunities which are at hand.

Sidney S. Lee, M.D., Dr.P.H.,
General Director

REPORT OF THE GENERAL DIRECTOR

PART II

The far-reaching developments on the national scene have added dimension to the already swiftly moving panorama of change and progress in hospitals generally and in our own Beth Israel Hospital. In 1965 significant progress was recorded in a number of areas.

An overall impression of this movement can be gained by a glimpse at some major statistics. In 1965 well over 35,000 patients were treated at the hospital as inpatients or outpatients. More than 110,000 adult patient days of care were recorded, an increase of 3,000 over the previous year. In addition, 2400 babies were born at the hospital. The number of clinical laboratory tests increased again over the previous year by almost 34,000; in 1965, 360,793 such tests were done. Similarly, the 6,447 surgical operations performed at the hospital represented an increase over the 1964 total of 6,143.

Facilities Moved Into Rabb Building

New people and new space were among the major factors which permitted Beth Israel to move ahead in 1965. Since 1961 we have been engaged in a vast building program. Much has been said about the extraordinary feat, performed almost daily during this period, of operating a great hospital while construction proceeded, while whole departments were relocated into temporary quarters, and while numerous people were displaced. In 1965, although these difficulties continued, we were able at last to begin the permanent movement of major units into the newly completed Rabb Building. Other moves were temporary and awaited the completion of renovation of the Outpatient Building before they would be working in permanent quarters. However, the impact of these shifts gave many important services the wherewithal to increase their services to patients and contributed greatly to the spirit of progress which prevailed in our hospital.

Among major units which occupied their permanent quarters in the Rabb Building were the Agoos Medical Library, the Medical Records Department, the Riesman Lecture Hall, the Casper M. Grosberg Teaching Unit, the Chemistry-Hematology-Bacteriology Laboratories, the Blood Bank, Electrocardiography Unit, Phono and Vector Cardiography, Electroencephalography, and the Physical Medicine-Occupational Therapy Department.

Tribute to Dr. Jacob Fine

Along with the physical movement of units, the arrival and departure of people formed an important part of the developments of 1965.

Dr. Jacob Fine, Surgeon-in-Chief of Beth Israel Hospital and Professor of Surgery at Harvard Medical School, was honored at our Annual Dinner. Speaking in tribute to the man who has been characterized as "one of the best known men in American medicine," Dr. Howard H. Hiatt, Physician-in-Chief at Beth Israel and first holder of the Herrman L. Blumgart Professorship in Medicine at Harvard said:

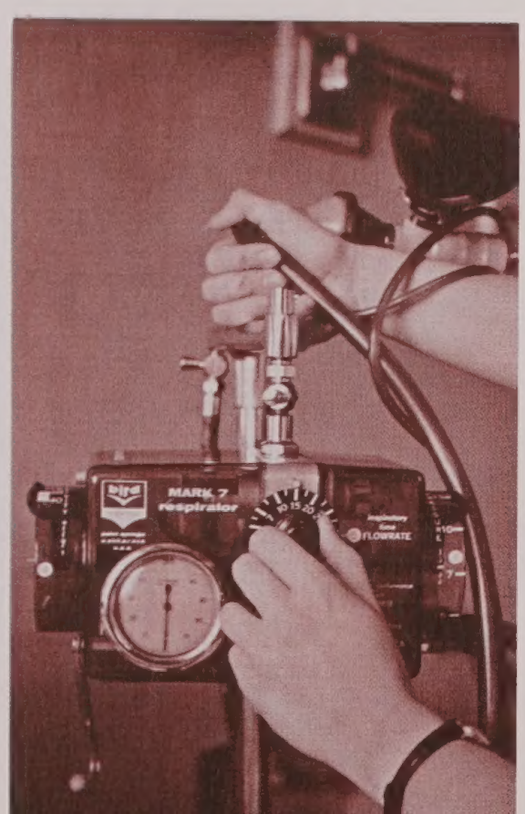
"He demonstrated the usefulness of peritoneal dialysis as a means of saving the lives of people with certain kinds of kidney disease, and now, 20 years later, this technique is widely employed. Methods for measuring blood volume have come from his laboratory, and are now in everyday use in hospitals throughout the world for the management of patients with hemorrhage and other conditions that reduce the amount of blood returning to the heart, and thereby threaten life. His studies have provided important information concerning diseases of the liver and of the pancreas.

"His major efforts, however, have been directed at the problem of the shock state consequent to trauma and few people anywhere have contributed more to this enormous problem."

New Appointments Add Strength

The development and expansion of patient care, teaching and research activities were given impetus by the arrival of several outstanding younger physicians. Among them were Dr. Howard Frazier, who heads the Renal Unit at B.I., is Associate Visiting Physician here, and Assistant Professor of Medicine at Harvard; Dr. Stephen Robinson, head of the Clinical Hemotology Laboratory and Associate in Medicine at Harvard; and Dr. Stuart F. Schlossman, who heads the Blood Bank, serves as Associate in Medicine at B.I. and Instructor in Medicine at Harvard.

Dr. Harold W. Rubin, who has been a member of our staff for many years, again assumed the post of Acting Chief of Obstetrics-Gynecology. Dr. John Vorenberg became Acting Chief of the Psychiatric Service. Jack Kasten became Director of Clinical Services and Mrs. Juanita Long was appointed Associate Director of Nursing Education.



Mr. Slosberg has cited the hospital's expanded relationship with the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for Aged, as another long step forward in our relationships with other health and social agencies, and this development represents also the spirit of movement which marked 1965.

Highlights of Service Activities

The annual reports of many of our services and departments reflect the progress made by this institution during 1965. Here are a few outstanding examples:

The Pediatric Service, which pioneered a unique Child Care Program, as noted by Mr. Slosberg in the President's Report, was honored by receipt of the William J. Shroder Memorial Award. Under the leadership of Dr. Robert B. Berg, Pediatrician-in-Chief at B.I. and Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at Harvard, the concept of this program was broadened and involved the cooperative efforts of other departments, most notably Social Service, Nursing and Psychiatry. Almost 800 children are now enrolled in this program.

Psychiatry, under Dr. Vorenberg's direction, has responded to needs for broadened service, particularly in training and service in short-term therapy with flexible use of psycho-pharmacologic agents. The Integration clinic, which was established several years ago, recorded a significant rise in patient visits. The Children's Unit introduced new techniques of evaluation and therapy in an effort to reduce the waiting list.

Working with Dr. Berg's Child Care Program, the Psychiatric Service has succeeded in serving a portion of the population which had previously not been exposed to this type of care.

Radiology Explores New Procedures

The growth which has characterized the Radiology Department continued in 1965, under the direction of Dr. Morris Simon, Radiologist-in-Chief and Assistant Clinical Professor at Harvard. The number of X-Ray examinations rose to a total of 26,708, compared to 23,581 in 1964. New equipment has expedited service in regular and more complex radiological procedures. Typical of the new procedures which have been introduced is the direct aspiration of cells from nodules in the lungs, thus permitting rapid and accurate diagnoses in situations that formerly were resolved only by surgery. There has also been a strengthening of neuroradiology procedures. In addition, the Radiology Department underwent full conversion of its facilities from "dark room" fluoroscopy to completely intensified modern fluoroscopy in lighted rooms.

A new Radiological Classification of Diseases was developed. This method has now been proposed as the basis for an international classification system.

A striking illustration of the impetus given to patient services by the move into the Rabb Building can be found in the case of the Physical Medicine-Occupational Therapy Department. In its new quarters, under the direction of Dr. William J. Shriber, the department, which had operated under great difficulties before and during the construction of the building, now has an expanded scope of treatment for a larger number of patients. In 1965 the department gave 9,177 treatments, compared to 6,982 in 1964.

New Emergency Unit is "Most Modern"

Another gratifying result of the building program is the performance of the Emergency Unit. Recognized as one of the most complete and modern facilities of its type in the entire nation, the Unit has functioned with great efficiency to accommodate the steadily increasing flow of patients who come to it for medical care. In 1965, the Unit had 18,568 visits, compared to 17,114 the previous year. When we note that one-third of the hospital's inpatients are admitted via the Emergency Unit we can recognize its importance to our total function.

The Emergency Unit is designed to be as nearly self-sufficient as possible, containing six treatment rooms, 2 surgery rooms, a specialty surgery room, two safe-rooms, central nursing station and equipment, heated driveway, automatically opening doors, and a large variety of supplies. At times of disaster it can be used quickly and effectively to handle large numbers of patients who may arrive simultaneously.

The Outpatient Department in 1965 still struggled to maintain full service despite the fact that it was housed in widely separated, temporary quarters while the Outpatient Building was being completely renovated. Even with these handicaps the clinics experienced a small increase in number of visits, going from 61,857 in 1964 to 62,229 in 1965.

Clinical Laboratories Centralized

Another area which has benefited from the move into the Rabb Building is the Clinical Laboratories. Formerly scattered throughout the building in 17 locations, the laboratories have now been established in new facilities and have been better able to meet the constantly rising pressures for increased service.

Expansion of the work of the Electron Microscopy Unit was noted by Dr. David G. Freiman, Pathologist-in-Chief and Director of Laboratories, and Professor of Pathology at Harvard. The hospital acquired a second electron microscope in 1965 and these unique instruments, which provide deeper insight into life processes through their high powers of resolution and magnification, are now being utilized by a number of departments in various research projects.

The Home Care Program, which enables indigent people with chronic illness to receive comprehensive care in their own homes, experienced 12,250 patient days in 1965. A total of 2200 home visits were made by members of the home care team, including 606 by physicians, 1134 by visiting nurses (including physical therapists), and 460 by social workers. The homemaker service provided 6164 hours of assistance to patients in this program.

Nursing, Social Service Indispensable to Good Care

The Nursing Service, headed by Miss Dora E. Zolotin, provided excellent care despite the difficulties inherent in the shortage of nurses. The Unit Manager Program, designed to relieve nurses of non-nursing functions, continued to grow. This plan further demonstrated its worth in 1965 and numerous hospitals expressed interest in learning about its operation.

Social Service, under the direction of Mrs. Beatrice Phillips, continued to play a vital role in providing total medical care to patients. The department gave service to an increased number of people during the year, and the average number per month rose from 726, in 1964, to 784 in 1965. In addition to work with patients on the ward and private services, Home Care and outpatients, the Department also worked with Golden Age groups and the hospital's Child Care Program. Two social workers were provided for this latter program. The department instituted an experimental program in 1965 involving the use of Neighborhood Aides.

Several women who reside in the area covered by the Child Care Program are participating in the program in this capacity. Under the supervision of a senior caseworker in the Department, the Neighborhood Aide assists in helping parents to follow through with medical recommendations, utilize appropriate community resources, clarify and demonstrate basic patterns of healthy living and economical management of meager budgets.

Hospital Draws Strength From the Community

The hospital draws its strength from the community it serves. The Officers and Trustees, under the leadership of Mr. Slosberg, set the policies of the institution and plan for its future development. In carrying out these functions the 1965 Board continued the high traditions of previous leaders. Once again it surveyed the hospital's needs and took the courageous step of authorizing a capital funds campaign for 1966 to help meet the challenge of the future.

The Women's Auxiliary, whose report appears elsewhere in these pages, has also carried on its tradition of furnishing substantial assistance to the hospital.

Volunteers also play a significant part in supporting the work of the Beth Israel team. Last year 463 Volunteers gave a total of 47,246 hours of service, under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Sugarman, Director of the Volunteer Service.

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES CONTINUE GROWTH

Research activities at Beth Israel Hospital covered a wide spectrum of interests in 1965. More than 50 research and educational projects received $2,111,765 from various granting agencies.

Varied Studies in Medical Research

Under the direction of Dr. Hiatt, the Medical Research program carried on a number of studies in many fields. Research in Dr. Hiatt's own laboratory group continued to be concerned with the control of growth in normal and malignant cells. The work was carried on in three areas:

1. Basic studies in normal mammalian liver cells have shown several different systems that control growth, each of which is important under special circumstances. Investigation of several of these mechanisms is being continued and the group is making comparisons of normal and cancerous tissues. A preliminary study shows a difference in one control mechanism which may be of significance in that it may provide a method of control of growth of cancer that will not disturb normal growth.

2. Hormones from the adrenal cortex have been found to exert considerable influence over the metabolism of several body tissues. One mechanism of their action in the liver has been defined in a study that was recently completed.

3. Several systems have been developed in which cancer tissue removed from an individual patient may be kept intact in the test tube. Attempts are being made to determine whether the effects of drugs on the cancer in the test tube will help in the choice of drugs for use by the patient.

Other Medical Research Studies

Dr. Irving Goldberg continued his laboratory studies of the mechanisms involved in the biosynthesis of proteins and nucleic acids. Attention has been directed particularly at the mode of action by which antibiotics interfere with this process.

Dr. Benjamin Alexander, Dr. Liberto Pechet and Dr. John M. Bennet have made many detailed studies of interactions and properties of components of the clotting process. These studies clarify information about the mechanisms of the clotting process and improve our ability to control this vital event.

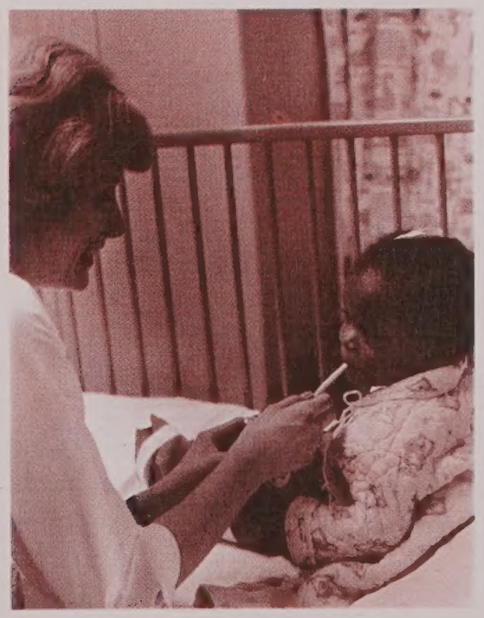
Dr. Daniel Deykin is carrying on studies on the pathogenesis of thromboembolism. The action of the liver in the clearance of excessive coagulability of blood has been studied with considerable potential clinical benefit.

Dr. A. Stone Freedberg and Dr. George S. Kurland continued their studies of the effects of disturbances in thyroid function on the heart. Initial studies with Dr. Mario Inchiosa, have begun to elucidate the marked increase in heart rate associated with excess thyroid hormone administration. This study has provided a new approach to the important problem of cardiac enlargement that results from many types of cardiac disease.

Dr. Paul M. Zoll and Dr. Arthur Linenthal carried on their work on heart block and cardiac arrhythmias. The procedure of implantation of electric pacemakers continued to provide gratifying care of Stokes-Adams disease. The major problem of breakage of wire electrodes seems to have been solved by the development of a new electrode wire that resists flexion and stress in a new order of magnitude. Studies were also conducted, of great clinical interest and immediate value, of application of continuous cardiac monitors in many cardiac conditions.



Dr. Irwin Freedberg has studied protein synthesis in cells of the skin and hair follicles. This work has yielded important information about this basic process.

Dr. Gerald Plotkin and the gastro-intestinal unit have been concerned with the regulation of enzyme activities in the intestine. Under investigation is the possible role of deficiency in certain enzymes in the production of certain inflammations of the bowel, such as ulcerative colitis and regional enteritis.

Dr. David Feingold, head of the section on infectious diseases, continued his study of the mechanisms by which antibiotic agents interfere with the growth of microorganisms. He concentrated on those agents that damage the surface structures of infectious cells, and particularly on the chemical structure of bacterial membranes and their important functions.

Dr. Bertram M. Winer, working in the hypertension laboratory, studied variations in renin, a substance secreted by the kidney, in normal and abnormal states, particularly associated with hypertension. A new study was also undertaken of regulation of blood pressure by changes in circulation to the base of the brain.

Pathology in Research Program

Research activity in Pathology during 1965 included:

- Studies on the histochemistry and cytochemistry of tumor cells and of "precancerous" states.
- Histochemical studies in gastrointestinal mucins in normal and neoplastic epithelium.
- Comparative histochemical localization of lysosomal enzymes.
- Electron microscopic demonstration of the sites of beta-glucuronidase and N-acetyl-beta-glucosaminidase activities in hepatic cells.
- Studies on the effects of heterogeneity of smooth muscles.
- Studies of tumor-specific versus organ-specific antigenicity in heterologous systems.
- Studies on the effects of heterologous antisera and immunized lymphoid cells on the sensitizing cells.
- Studies on the fine structure of vascular endothelium and platelet changes in thrombosis.
- Changes induced in the macrophages of the splenic pulp following injection of bacterial endotoxin.
- A study of the fine structure of cells of gastric and colonic mucosa in malignant and premalignant states.

- Studies on the role of metaplasia in gastric carcinogenesis.
- Studies of colonic adenomas.
- Studies on the pathogenesis of pulmonary thromboembolism and infarction.

Surgical Service in Extensive Program

Under the leadership of Dr. Fine the Surgical Research Department carried on an intensive program of investigations.

Dr. Fine engaged in several studies, including the pathophysiology of peripheral vascular collapse, and circulatory insufficiency with specific reference to the role of endotoxin in traumatic shock. With Dr. John A. Williams, Dr. Fine is studying serial determinations of blood volume.

Dr. Chester B. Rosoff is engaged with Dr. Fine in research involving intestinal flora in defense against massive injury.

Vascular components of the homograft response are being studied by Drs. Howard A. Frank and Peter B. Lambert. Dr. Frank is also investigating collateral circulatory mechanisms and the myocardium.

Drs. Edward Frank and Edward Friedman are doing research in the pathophysiology, hemodynamics and therapy of traumatic shock in man.

Drs. Benjamin Banks and Alexander M. Rutenberg are studying enzymes in gastrointestinal mucosa. Dr. Rutenberg is also investigating urinary enzymes in malignant disease and is evaluating new agents for treatment of cancer.

Razor dermatone experiments are being carried on by Dr. Melvin Shoul, and Dr. Robert C. Skarnes is studying the inactivation of endotoxins.

NEW FACILITIES AID TEACHING PROGRAM

The completion of the Rabb Building also brought a new dimension to the teaching activities of the hospital. The Riesman Lecture Hall, which accommodates sixty people and the Seminar Rooms of the new Grosberg Teaching Unit, have at last provided the up-to-date facilities which our teaching program requires.

One of the highlights of the hospital's educational activities was the institution of a series of Saturday morning conferences known as "Advances in Medicine." This series has brought outstanding medical and other leaders to the hospital to discuss leading problems. These have included such topics as "Computers in Biology and Medicine," "Mechanisms of Internal Absorption" and "Medicare".

Provide Professional and Technical Education

In addition to the education of medical students, interns and residents, and nursing students, the hospital carries on an extensive program of educational activities for a variety of professional and technical specialties. These include Simmons College School of Social Work, an expanded affiliation with the Northeastern University College of Nursing, Boston University School of Nursing, a Dietetic Internship Program, Dental Assistants, Medical Technologists, X-Ray Technicians. There were also 18 Research Fellows at the hospital during the year.

Thus, 1965 was a year in which Beth Israel Hospital moved ahead in many areas. It was a year in which important national developments found us ready to assume new responsibilities in patient care. It was a year in which the careful planning and generous support of the community resulted in the completion of new facilities and added to efficient operation and convenience for the patient. It was a year in which our research and teaching activities moved forward to a new dimension in scope and reinforcement of patient care.

As always, the people were the movers. The people of the community who supported our objectives, the people who came to us for service, and the many skilled people who staff and maintain our various programs.

To the Board of Trustees,

The Beth Israel Hospital Association:

We have examined the balance sheet of THE BETH ISRAEL HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION (a Massachusetts corporation) as of September 30, 1965, and the related statements of income and fund balances for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We had made a similar examination for the preceding year.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and statements of income and fund balances present fairly the financial position of The Beth Israel Hospital Association as of September 30, 1965 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY . . . GENTLE DYNAMO IN THE COMMUNITY

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

The late, unlamented Chancellor of Nazi Germany unknowingly uttered a great profundity when he cried, "The Jew originated conscience." Throughout the ages we Jews have been charged with the sacred trust of responsibility for our brothers. Instead of the often quoted phrase — "Man's Inhumanity to Man" — we have been the exponents of "Man's Humanity to Man." It is axiomatic that as woman's primary duty is in custodianship of the family, that woman's horizons should be enlarged in concern for all.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Beth Israel Hospital has assumed this role since its inception. It was its vision and dogged determination that helped this hospital grow from the germ of an idea to its present-day status as a great medical complex.

I am only the spokesman for the Women's Auxiliary, but I am most honored to have been selected as their voice. I pledge the full support of our more than 8,000 strong membership to any and all projects that the Beth Israel Hospital wishes us to undertake. I pray that we continue to be blessed with the desire to serve, and that through this service, excellent health and medical care be enjoyed by all.

The sole purpose of the Women's Auxiliary, according to its by-laws is to "aid and abet the welfare of the Beth Israel Hospital."

In 1965, our program was geared to carry out this objective. Its main facets were the contribution of funds, provision of volunteer workers, and dissemination of information to the general community.

Through a new program of informative discussions and talks with the young leadership groups we sought to imbue them with a real commitment to this institution. Proceeds from the 1965 Annual Luncheon were used to equip the Mother and Child Care clinic. Money for capital improvements in the hospital was accrued through life membership. Social service benefited from the Remembrance Fund.

Highlights, the Auxiliary newspaper, was published four times during the year and acquainted our membership with current activities of the hospital and Auxiliary. Thrift Shop and Gift Shop surpassed even their own past exciting figures and contributed in great measure to the overall fund raising picture. Annual membership, the life blood of any organization, campaigned successfully for new members who will give fresh vitality and service to the group. Branches, in outlying communities, rendered outstanding contributions in all facets of the women's sphere.

We are proud of this record, but look ahead for even more exciting and fruitful programs in response to the hospital's growing needs. With the help of the thousands of our friends in the community we will continue to "aid and abet" the growth and development of our Beth Israel Hospital.
